

Accounted For

June 2009

Greetings amid dry heat, grasshoppers and our Great God!

Have you had a fast June, or what!?? Life is a vapor that only makes us closer to Heaven and living ETERNALLY with our Redeemer! Even so Lord, come quickly in these trying days.

Deep, bright, HOT blue skies are now a daily routine for us here in Montana. We had a lot of cool weather and much needed rain in June. I love the green grass, white-tipped mountains and blue skies of June. Now we "swim" through the yard with grasshoppers and watch helplessly as they EAT EVERY blade of green grass. July, August and September we have pretty much brown grass, and prayers regarding forest fires. --I guess it might sound like I'm complaining but I most certainly am not! I thought maybe our Eastern readers might like a weather and geographical report!

We sang once, June 27th! Peter's birthday! I forgot to have everyone sing for him!! I'm a terrible wife!! Oops! We had a great time with the Lutricks from Texas helping to kick off their revival meeting at our Church. Whoooooooping good time! God Bless their ministry.

Please pray with us regarding up-coming dates. Only the Lord's will be done, that's the happiest place to be for Accounted For and YOU too!

Personally speaking

This month gave me [Pete] a little bit more than I had planned. We didnt have but a few things going on this month so I had some free time. I got the privilege to fill in singing baritone for Driven Quartet, out of NC. Our journey brought us into central Montana and up in to Saskatchewan. The Lord had this weekend perfectly planned. Not only was there a great time had singing, but "we had church" on the bus and it was truly a breath of fresh air and a well needed pick me up.

If you ever get the chance to see Scott, Jason, Chad or Will...DONT pass it up...tell them I sent you. ;)

Glenda's Gabbings

Hello All! Glenda is not really gabbing this time. I would REALLY like to share these thoughts sent to Peter and I from a humble man of God and Preacher we once heard on a regular basis. Thoughts to ponder and grow thereby!!
